The Oxford Dysfluency Conference has a reputation as one of the leading international scientific conferences in the field of dysfluency.

We are excited to be getting back together in person. To meet with colleagues old and new, build on what has gone before, and bring new energy and ideas to our research and clinical practice. The future is now, come and join us!

The conference brings together researchers and clinicians, providing a showcase and forum for discussion and collegial debate about the most current and innovative research and clinical practices.

The conference seeks to promote research that informs management, with interventions that are supported by sound theory and which inform future research.

Conference Chairs:

Sharon Millard, The Michael Palin Centre for Stammering, UK • Shelley B. Brundage, George Washington University, USA
